Francis Field Building Fund Drive To Open Monday

Beginning next Monday, Feb. 5, business, industrial and civic leaders of Will county are to launch a campaign calculated to complete the $150,000 building program planned for Francis Field, the 4-H show grounds on Francis road in New Lenox township.

A great deal of the work for improving Francis field has been done and a lot of donated labor and material went into the early accomplishments.

The goal now for the final push starting next week is for $80,000. This amount is needed, it was estimated to erect a permanent 4-H center building on the New Lenox grounds that will house exhibits, furnish meeting facilities and make the field useful for all kinds of community affairs.

Groundwork for the coming campaign was laid Tuesday at a meeting of some 300 helpers at the Woodruff hotel, Joliet, with H.G. Carr, a Northern Illinois Gas Co. executive, presiding. Mr. Carr is chairman of the campaign.

Francis field, to back into the history of the situation, is an 18-acre tract which was given to the 4-H clubs by Mrs. Fred

A. Francis in memory of her late husband, who was a great friend of the farm youth and one of the original 4-H sponsors.

Beginning in 1958 the 4-H's, their parents, friends and leaders of various organizations in the outlying communities began the work of improving the grounds.

Roads were made, a show barn and covered ring erected, a utility building, an outdoor ring, electrical facilities and other improvements were completed.

Now they are striving to get an exposition building erected. Home bureau units are already engaged in various fund raising activities to get the money to equip the kitchen for the proposed new building.

4-H fairs are held on the grounds and last year the 4-H's from South Cook County also made use of it for their annual fair.

Carr will direct the drive to provide the exposition building, aided by representatives of leading business and industry in the area. It is expected the campaign will be successfully concluded by Feb. 19.

Joliet Move Against Junior College Plan Rouses Area

Someone lit a match at the Joliet high school board meeting last week that not only fired the indignation of members of the Lincoln-Way high school board and citizens advisory council but also kindled the fire of many residents in the district.

The Joliet high school board would deprive the voters of the Lincoln-Way high school district from deciding for themselves whether to join a proposed community junior college district.

There is a petition before Cook County School Superintendent Noble J. Puffer asking him to call a referendum on the question of whether such a community junior college district be organized. The hearing date is tomorrow, Feb. 2. The state superintendent of schools, George T. Wilkins already has approved the petition and returned it to Puffer with a recommendation that it be approved.

The Joliet high school board is sending its superintendent Dr. William C. French to the meeting with orders to oppose the petition.

The proposed junior college district would be made up of seven high school districts, Lincoln-Way, Carl Sandburg, Evergreen Park, Oak Lawn, Reavis, Blue Island and Argo. All but Argo and Blue Island are high schools that comprise the Southwest Suburban conference.

The proposed district is loaded with industries and very rich. The present assessed valuation is some $895-million, which is about three and a half times the valuation of the Joliet high school and junior college district. Those who made a survey of the territory with the creation of a junior college district in mind say that by 1972 the valuation will have reached $2-billion.

As far as can be ascertained from the published report of the Joliet high school board meeting that body doesn't want Lincoln-Way in any junior college district.

What it suggests is that the Lincoln-Way district pay tuition for any of its graduates who want to attend junior college and send them to Joliet junior college. That the Lincoln-Way board is without authority to pay tuition for any graduate desiring to attend junior college is not mentioned.

The Lincoln-Way high school board in a statement covering the situation had this to say: "1. The local people have the right to determine and choose the kind of an educational program desired.

"2. The proposed community junior college plan has been unanimously approved by all the members of this board, the members of the citizens advisory council and the members of the committee that made a comprehensive survey and study.

"3. We have never been approached with any concrete plan, nor any possible future date for voting on a Will county area community junior college.

"4. Very little, if any interested, has been displayed by any of the high school districts in Will county toward formation of such a junior college district.

"5. The Joliet junior college district and a community junior college district are entirely different. To become a part of the Joliet junior college the Lincoln-Way district would have to annex to the Joliet high school district.

"6. To pay tuition for junior college students the people would have to vote for a special tax to raise the money for the purpose. Then any high school graduate living within the district, regardless of from what high school he was graduated, would be entitled to have his tuition paid in the junior college of his choice. However, there would be no assurance that he would be accepted. If a junior college were crowded it is most likely that enrollment therein would be limited to those living within its boundaries. Joliet is experiencing difficulties now in taking care of their own high school and junior college students and are talking double shifts for the next school year."

New Lenox Singers Score Triumph In Opera Debut

The American Opera Company's premier performance played to a sell-out house with its presentation of Bizet's "Carmen" under severe handicaps. Three of the supporting leads were victims of flu but nevertheless were on stage and doing their valiant best under the circumstances.

The star of the evening was indeed Miss Henrietta Kooyenga, of New Lenox, who, as Carmen, had a perfect understanding of the role. At several points Miss Kooyenga rescued one of the ailing cast members who had missed their cue and did it so artfully that only those who know the role well could realize that she not only knew her part to perfection but also that of the other performers.

Miss Kooyenga has splendid colorization and gave real life to Carmen with her fiery, vivid tones and acting ability. The American Opera Company is sorry indeed that she has not consented to be a regular member of the company.

Miss Elaine Griffin, also of New Lenox, was a lovely and most impressive "Mercedes" and conveyed the complete abandon of the part with her clear fine coloratura.

One of the high points of the evening was the quintet, another trio, or what is sometimes known as the card scene. Miss Kooyenga completely portrayed the headstrong disregard, but acute awareness of impending doom, to the accompanying death theme, while on the other hand Miss Griffin gave a fine impression of the fickle, greedy, gay gypsy, Mercedes.

One contingent will leave the Lions Den at 9:30 Sunday morning and hunt until noon. The other group will leave at 1 p.m. and hunt until 4:00. As far as has been said there is no reason why a person can't spend the day at it. There are 10 square miles of hunting grounds to cover and weapons will be limited to shotguns.

For those who like hunters' stew Fred Feil will have a big kettle of same that he will serve at the Lions Den Sunday noon. The public is invited to participate in the hunt.

And while the men are making their plans for the fox hunt the women's auxiliary of the Sportsmen is making plans too for a square dance. This is to be a family affair and is scheduled to be held the night of Feb. 10 at Haven school, New Lenox, starting at 7 o'clock. Tickets are $1 per family. One of the features, it was said, will be a sportsmen's hat parade.

Refreshments will be served and there will be a bakery booth in operation.

Says Recreation Sites Increase Value Of Lots

Loss of park and recreation district land was a major topic at the meeting of the Mokena community park district board held last Thursday night in Mokena village hall. The board received a publication from the Illinois Association of Park Districts drawing attention to the growing scarcity of land available for recreation purposes, which situation is made more critical by the ever increasing demands of industry, governmental functions and roadways.

The board agreed with the need for early development of park lands, particularly those that might be contained within the confines of new subdivisions as they are developed. It was noted that these park facilities tended to increase the value of the nearby lots, as well as providing neighborhood recreational facilities for a rapidly growing community. The district will cooperate in the development of such facilities where ever possible.

Improved facilities are available for group picnics at the Mokena Community park and those wishing to make reservations should do so at an early date, it was stated.

The ice skating rink has continued to draw increasing crowds. Flood lights have been installed to afford a greater number of people an opportunity to skate.

Grade Cagers
Win 2 Titts

The Orland Park grade school heavyweight basketball game, which like the teams at Sandburg high school, is known as the Eagles, has made an auspicious start.

It polished off Reed school 37 to 33 and then knocked off Palos Park, 28 to 19. This was the first time an Orland Park team has beaten a Palos Park basketball team in five years.

In the game against Palos the Orlands led all the way. In the clash with Reed the first period ended with the score at 6-11. At half time Orland had a one point lead, 16 to 15 which they nursed along until they finally came out on top of score of 37-33.

The lightweights also won from Reed, 25 to 17.

The Orland Park teams are coached by Thomas Kerner, sixth grade teacher and also physical education instructor.

Please, Let Us Run Our Own Business!

The "Divine Rights of Kings," once a generally accepted theory in government but long ago dropped as a practical measure, apparently still has its followers in the persons of the high and mighty lords that comprise the Joliet high school and junior college board of education and its top flight administrators.

The result is that officials and board members of the Lincoln-Way high school district, its citizens advisory groups and the men and women who assisted in the recently completed survey on the needs of a community junior college district are angered by the attitude and action of the Joliet high school board.

According to the public prints last week the Joliet board will send its superintendent, Dr. William C. French to the meeting in the office of Cook County School Superintendent Noble Puffer at Chicago tomorrow to protest inclusion of the Lincoln-Way high school district in the proposed community junior college district that will cover a large portion of the southwest suburban area.

The Joliet board has gone even further. It charges that the spirit of the law and proper procedures were not followed in setting up the boundaries of the new district.

In a public notice published last week the Cook county school head stated that the petition asking that a referendum be called for the purpose of establishing a community junior college district was filed with him last November 22, setting up the boundaries of said district.

In accordance with the law the papers were sent on to the state superintendent of schools who in turn reported his findings to the Cook county superintendent with a recommendation that a junior college be established in the territory described.

The hearing tomorrow on said petition and the report of the state superintendent is scheduled for 1:30 o'clock.

We are of the opinion that the election should be held so that the people of the area may decide what they wish to do about the establishment of a junior college district.

As far as we can see this is a matter solely for the people of the proposed district to decide: certainly it is not the business of the Joliet high school board or the administrative staff of that school.

We believe that Joliet residents would be indignant if the people of New Lenox, Frankfort, Mokena and Manhattan tried to tell them how to operate their schools, and they would be right to be indignant.

From what we can gather from the statement issued by the Joliet high school board it is obsessed by the fact that the junior college there was the first to be established in the nation and for any high school district in the area to consider any alternative other than to support the Joliet college smacks of treason or stupidity.

It seems rather silly to us for Joliet junior college to look to the support of its neighbors as an inherent right.

Dr. French is instructed to tell Mr. Puffer reports state, that "the Lockport high school district provides junior college education at Joliet for its students. This same action could be taken by the Lincoln-Way board if the board would vote to pick up the tab as Lockport did."

In the first place it was the voters of the Lockport high school district that approved the levy of a special tax to raise funds. In the first place it was not the Lockport high school board that voted to pay junior college tuition for high school graduates. It was the voters of the district who authorized a special tax for the purpose and the purpose was not specifically to pay tuition for Lockport high school graduates in Joliet or any other specific junior college.

The law as adopted in the Lockport district applies to all high school graduates living within its boundaries and the student has the right to designate what college he will attend.

Lincoln-Way district educators have not been too interested in this procedure and the same is true in other districts in the southwest area. They point out that under this system a student has no assurance that he will be permitted to attend any junior college.

For instance Joliet high school board has been discussing how crowded the high school and college are becoming and certainly if they become overcrowded it is most likely that enrollments will be limited to residents of the district. Outsiders would be cut off.

One way for Lincoln-Way district to become a part of the Joliet junior college would be for the voters to annex Lincoln-Way district to the Joliet high school and junior college district.

The other way would be for Joliet to dissolve its junior college and then form a community junior college made up of surrounding townships--provided of course the voters in the other townships were willing. It is not likely that either plan would win support in Joliet or any other locality involved.

The Lincoln-Way high school board has also addressed a communication to Mr. Puffer. It states that no discussion or meeting of the community college problem on a county-wide (Will county) basis was proposed until after the Lincoln-Way district signified its intention of acting with most of the members of its own Southwest Suburban high school conference.

It points out that when a county-wide meeting was scheduled at Joliet to discuss the problem only three districts were represented and there was no discussion about the feasibility of conducting a study and survey.

Participation of Lincoln-Way in the southwest area community junior college plan has the unanimous approval of the seven members of the district's board, the 12 members of the Lincoln-Way citizens advisory council, and the 10 members who participated in the junior college survey and study.

The proposed community junior college which Lincoln-Way has an opportunity to join will be one of the wealthiest junior college districts in the state, according to survey figures. The 1960 assessed valuation was $895-million and in another 10 years it is expected it will hit the $2-billion mark.

The Joliet high school board, putting out a little propaganda, is warning the residents of the Lincoln-Way district that joining the proposed community junior college could cost them 50 cents per $100 valuation for educational purposes and 10 cents for building purposes.

Those figures would be the maximum that could be levied, it was explained, but the survey committee estimates that the total tax levy would actually be around 24 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

We happen to believe that the inclusion of Lincoln-Way high school district in the proposed community junior college would be a good thing from a cost as well as an educational basis. With the tremendous assessed valuation such a district would have it should have the money build the physical plant required, equip it, and hire an excellent faculty without any great burden on the homeowner.

We are not attempting, however, to say how the people should vote. We are saying that they should have the right to vote on the question and decide it for themselves.

Meanwhile we should like to suggest to their lordships on the Joliet high school and junior college board of education that while we are humble folks we are quite capable of managing our own business and it would be well for them to keep their collective nose out of it.

On Second Thought

By GLENN F. LOGAN

A couple of nasty months, weatherwise, lie ahead of us, February and March so perhaps it might be well to call attention to the fact that the National Safety Council released a series of articles only last week warning of the hazards of winter driving.

Such releases generally are issued just before winter makes its official arrival. Oh, there may have been a light snow or two and some fairly cold days but in this particular belt winter driving is more of an academic subject at that time and suggestions as to what to do about it may be forgotten.

So the releases issued last week may be a reminder or it may be the National Safety Council is stringing along with the almanac makers or it has a private crystal ball which shows a lot more snow and cold ahead.

One may point out that we have a lot of snow and cold behind us but that is just for the record now. If we have survived yesterday's weather the only thing that should bother us is whether we can get thru today, and let tomorrow take care of itself. Remember what Omar said about tomorrow . . . "why, tomorrow, I may be myself, with yesterday's seven thousand years." Omar knew snow as well as sand, both substances being difficult to walk in.

Omar, however, didn't have a Supersonic Eight or a Whoa-there Six to cope with in either snow or sand and with his predilection for the jug it is just as well that the automobile was not invented then. As it was if a drinking man stayed off hills, cliffs and roofs about the only distance he could fall would be his own length and if he was riding a camel -- well, there is this to say for camels, they don't run into one another.

How did Omar get into this, anyway? He certainly doesn't qualify as an authority on winter driving and the National Safety Council is made up of experts on driving under any conditions so we'll stick with them.

Now the National Safety Council emphasizes that too many urban area motorists in the snow -- belt region that would qualify as good drivers on a dry track don't know what to do when they drive on ice and snow.

They are so accustomed to having city, state or transit companies remove the snow and put salt and cinders on the icy portions of the streets and highways that they have a personal responsibility to be mentally prepared and have their cars equipped for severe winter driving, it was pointed out.

Says Harry Porter Jr., manager of the Council's traffic division:

"Many drivers don't use good judgment in when to drive, and fail to equip their vehicles properly if they must be out in a severe storm. They get stalled and block snow removal equipment and maybe emergency vehicles.

"Inadequate traction and reduced visibility are two of the six basic hazards of winter driving that cause motorists trouble. The other four: (1) Effect of temperature-ice at zero is not as slippery as at 32 when it is beginning to melt; (2) Reduced ability to stop and steer; (3) Unexpected icy conditions and (4) Ice and snow made slippery by traffic."

The National Safety Council rates snow tires ahead of regular tires but for severe snow or ice conditions it comes out flatfooted for reinforced chains.

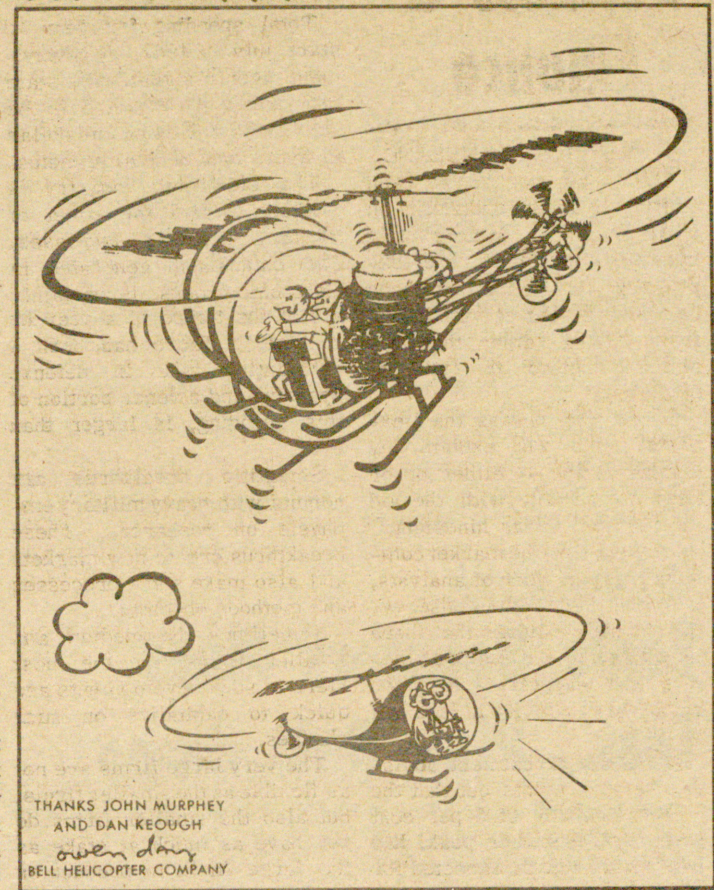

We have no quarrel with the Safety Council on that point and it is likely that after any hard winter there will be more subscribers to the chain idea, probably because more people will have them.

We agree that chains will do a better job than snow tires but if you decide right now to follow the Council's recommendation of putting a set of chains in your car trunk so they will be ready and waiting for the next spell of dirty weather, don't run to your dealer, just walk and if it is not too cold, take time for a little window shopping. You'll have time. The chances are that he is out of chains and whether us that true worship is not achieved merely by gazing at our beautiful church structures or admiring the splendid equipment they contain. Grant us contrite hearts and humbleness of mind that we may worship Thee in spirit and in truth; through Christ our Lord, Amen. THOUGHT FOR THE DAY The church is the fountain from which we drink the living water. Myrtle Smith (Minnesota) he will be able to wangle more depends on weather conditions.

Probably what the National Safety Council meant with its blithe reminder to be sure and put a set of tire chains in the car trunk was to do it when you are loading it up for a picnic or a summer vacation.

That is when chains are available. They are a summer item. That is when the manufacturer sells them to the wholesalers, and the jobber and they in turn supply the retail outlets.

Tire chains are not sold by the makers by the set but by the ton.

"It is odd," a retailer remarked to your correspondent the other day in response to a question as to whether he had any chains, "how an item like chains, as heavy as they are, just seem to melt away when the snow and ice come. Chains follow the winter. Some of us got more this winter from the east where they didn't have as much snow as expected. Last winter the jobbers in this section were picking up chains to ship west.

The snow here was negligible but quite a problem in the west. Now some of the dealers here wish they hadn't been so free with their chains or else that they had bought more last summer. The west is having another hard winter: so there are no spares there."

Anyway chains are hard to put on. Prof. A.E. Neyheart, of Pennsylvania, to the contrary. The National Safety Council quotes the good professor as saying even a child can put a set of chains on a car in six minutes by using a gimmick to stick one end of the chain to the tire and then following his directions.

Fastening the inner hook? A cinch, says the professor, and you don't have to get under the car either -- after a few times you can do it by feel, he says, assuming of course that you have any feelings in your fingers after messing around with thoroughly chilled, snow covered steel. The pictures show that even the six-minute people have to hunker down on their knees in the snow preparatory to feeling their way to the locking device of the inside hook or clamp.

The good professor cries a fig to anyone who would hire someone to put chains on his tires--be self reliant, he urges, do it yourself, he says, but he doesn't say anything about the cleaning bills. After messing around with a set of chain, out in the slush or snow and freezing temperatures a person's clothes are not only ready for the cleaners but the person itself is ready for a shower or tub.

And on top of that a set of reinforced chains will set you back between $18 and $20. Good insurance, one can say, and worthy every penny if you need them and the auto designers don't change the wheel sizes too fast.

As far as your correspondent knows the best way to beat the snow and ice and cold that besets the winter driver is to move south.

"Look at all the snow they've been having in the south this year," you point out.

All right, they have snow in the south but the people there respect it. Snow on roads? Ice on the highways? Sure, but not for long and while its there the people do the sensible thing -- even the salesmen -- they stay home or at least inside.

And as the song goes--"that's another thing I like about the South."

NOTICE OF PRESENTATION OF PETITION AND PUBLIC HEARING

Please take notice that on the 22nd day of November, A.D. 1961, a petition was presented to and filed with the undersigned County Superintendent of Schools in and for Cook County, Illinois, being the superintendent of schools of the county having the greater number of people included in the territory described in the petition. READ JOHN 4: 6-15

"The hour is coming, and now is, when the true worshippers will worship the Father in spirit and truth, for such the Father seeks to worship him," (John 4: 23, RS.V.)

When we were children on the farm, we frequently spent Sunday afternoons in the summer climbing the hills. By the time we thought we were high enough to risk drinking water from a stream, we scooped up a cool drink with our hands. Because we were thirsty, we did not miss the usual containers from which to drink.

Being thirsty and in the presence of pure water, did we stand look at our hands, admiring them, discussing size and

Hints For Homeowners

BY: JAMES FIZZELL.
Asst. Farm Adviser

If you are a new homeowner, chances are your flower garden has been limited to a few varieties of annuals. The maintenance of an annual garden is simplified by the fact that the plants die each winter and the soil can be reworked in spring. Planning an annual garden is not too exacting because mistakes can be rectified the following year. Annuals, once they start blooming, are effective all summer, but there is no variety through the year. Starting plants from seed each year soon becomes tiresome and if plants are purchased, the selection is limited.

Perennial gardens must be well prepared because they cannot be disturbed each year. Planning is more difficult because once established, perennial plants do not like to be moved and some winter protection is necessary in perennial gardens.

But there is no annual seeding or planting to worry about. Perennials do not provide the striking mass of color characteristic of annual gardens. The individual species seldom bloom for more than three weeks during the year. As a result, the perennial garden is a subtle, ever-changing picture providing continuous interest all season. This is the reason so many people soon discover the fun of a perennial garden. Since most perennials can be planted in spring, now is the time to start planning your perennial garden.

The list of perennials is long and impressive. Many nurseries list numerous species in their catalogs. Probably the best way to become familiar with many of these plants is to study these catalogs.

But as a little help to get you started, the following descriptions will serve as a guide to some of the more common species.

There are many species and varieties of lilies which do well in a garden. All lilies grow from bulbs. They can be grouped as to whether they produce stem roots above the bulb or not. This determines planting depth. The soil must be deeply prepared, well drained, and neutral to acid in reaction.

Lily flowers vary in shape but all have three sepals, three petals, one pistil and six stamens. Some varieties of lilies, such as tiger lily are very easy to grow. Others require more care, and some can be classified as difficult. As you may suspect, there is a direct relation between how hard it is to grow a variety, and the beauty of the flowers produced.

Daylilies are not lilies at all but belong to the genus Hemerocallis. The modern daylilies are much superior to the old-fashioned varieties which were orange and spread through the whole garden. The weedy habit has been bred out and the color range extended from yellow to deep red, including many bi-colors.

Day lilies will grow in any soil and in either sun or shade. They are not subject to insects or diseases. Single flowers last only 24 hours. The number of flowers on a stem determines the bloom period which may be as long as four weeks. Early varieties begin to bloom in mid-May; late varieties last until mid-August.

Catalogs list both evergreen and deciduous varieties. Evergreen varieties lose their vigor if the leaves are frozen in the winter. Daylilies can be dug up and moved at any time of the year. They are tough and will stand mis-treatment.

Selection of varieties is best made if the variety can be seen in bloom.

Iris have always been favorite garden plants. They are easy to grow, require little attention, have attractive foliage and can be counted on for good bloom. Iris can be grouped as bearded, beardless, and crested.

The bearded European varieties are the most easily grown in our gardens. They are the dwarf bearded and the German tall bearded. The dwarf varieties bloom in late April. The tall varieties bloom from early May to June. Colors range from yellow to purple and the newer pinks.

The Asian bearded varieties are not at all like the European types, and they are not well suited to our growing conditions.

Beardless iris are either rhizomatous or bulbous. The Siberian iris which likes dry situations and the Japanese iris which is one of the few which like wet locations are rhizomatous. Both do well in our area.

The only bulbous iris which do well in our climate are the Spanish species from the mountains of Spain. Dutch iris are hybrids of the Spanish species but are usually not hardy here.

Delphiniums or Larkspur are highly prized spike perennials. There are several species; however, the most spectacular are susceptible to a fungus disease which was until recently uncontrollable. The Pacific hybrid varieties reach a height of about five feet in this climate. The spikes are about two feet long and covered with flowers. The color range is white, lavender, blue and purple. They bloom in May and June and again in August if the first crop is cut off.

The Pacific varieties cannot be grown unless the soil is treated with the chemical terrachlor before planting and yearly thereafter.

D. belladonna and D. bellamosa are resistant to the fungus. Their blooms are not as spectacular as the Pacific hybrids because of shorter spikes and trumpet shaped rather than open flowers.

Some red and yellow species of Delphinium have been found in the mountains of California. Crosses with these species and D. belladonna produced a pink variety called Pink Sensation.

Annual and biennial delphinium, more commonly called Larkspur, are not suited to the perennial garden.

Peonies are rated among the most beautiful of all flowers and they are easy to grow. In fact, all they need is a decent soil and they will bloom contentedly for years.

They should be planted only in the fall, so save space for them when making your plan.

The one critical factor which most often causes failures with peonies is planting depth. The top eye or bud on the root should be exactly two inches below the surface of the soil. If planted too deep, peonies fail to bloom.

All peony flowers are made up of sepals, petals, stamens and pistils. They are classified into distinct groups by the forms which these parts take as singles, Japanese, Anemones, semi-doubles and doubles.

Business & Finance

BY MAURICE P. ANGLAND

The stock market has been drifting to lower quotations on small volume. Some usually informed investors are expressing the belief that there has been a sort of withdrawal from buying rather than insistent demand to liquidate holdings.

There are always the "experts" who will explain any market action -- either up or down -- usually with the aid of "Crystal Clear hindsight." On wading thru the market comments of a number of analysts, it would seem that conservative opinion believes that there is nothing in the business picture that suggests a let down of business activity in last half of 1962.

A leading investment advisory service points out that the market setback of 6 per cent from the December peak, has held within bounds expected for normal technical reaction.

This service expresses itself as regarding the decline as temporary and an opportunity to pick up good stocks.

Several analysts are pointing to record government spending this year and which must have a heavy impact on business as the year progresses.

Total spending for year to start July 1, 1962, by government agencies (national, state and local) is expected to be about $165 billion or one dollar in every four of total spending.

The electronic industry is starting to feel the effect of military spending increases. The enthusiasm generated in electronic stocks, is certainly not at the tempo of a year or so ago. There has been a substantial hike in defense spending and science portion of this spending, is larger than ever.

Scientific breakthroughs are normal with heavy military emphasis on research. These breakthroughs create new markets and also make some processes and methods obsolete.

Sometimes the medium and smaller firms are the most alert to such developments and quick to capitalize on such changes.

The very large firms are not as flexible as the smaller firms, but also the smaller firms do not have as much at stake as the large firm, in product or process revolutions. A mistake by a large firm, in following a scientific development too fast could be most expensive to the large firm.

One of the exotic scientific developments that is being closely watched by industry, is the field of thermoelectricity or what is called "TE". The use of TE in cooking equipment is expected to be the most important for some time, but it has been said that a thousand small and large firms are working on problems in this field. The rewards are likely to be large. TE generation of electric power would be of great value to the military and also revolutionize many civilian products and processes. Military and civilian spending on research in this field cannot be estimated accurately, but some idea may be had by fact that government spending in this field was $3 million in 1959 and $10 million this year. Civilian spending in research with TE is known to have increased substantially, but figures not available. A well known investment service specializing in the electronics field, lists the following firms as likely to be in leading positions in the field as of now: General Instruments, Minneapolis-Honeywell, Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing, and Radio Corporation.

Boy Scouts To Pick Up Scrap Paper On Saturday

MRS. EDWARD HOBI
Mokena 5740

The Summit Hill Boy Scout Troop Number 10 will hold its monthly paper pick-up this Saturday, Feb. 3. Any type of paper or cardboard, which can be easily taken, will be accepted.

If you plan on contributing to the paper drive, please have your contributions ready before 9 o'clock in the morning. All papers should be bundled and placed either by the front door, or by the garage door; not at the curb, because of the garbage collection which is made on the same day.

The School Board of the Summit Hill School District 161 will hold its monthly meeting at the school on Monday evening, Feb. 5, at 8 o'clock.

The Arbury Hills Civic Association will hold its regular monthly meeting on Tuesday evening, Feb. 6, at 8:00, at the school.

There will be an election of officers. The four officers and several directors will be elected at this time. The nominating committee has been hard at work since its formation at the last monthly meeting. The nominating committee will present a slate of potential officers, and then will ask for additional nomination from the floor. The election will follow.

This is actually the most important meeting which any organization can hold, the election of the men and women who will conduct the business for the coming year. All members should make a real effort to attend this meeting, so that the election of officers will truly represent the will of the majority of the members, it was pointed out, and not just a "shoo-in" for the elected persons because of the lack of interest.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence A. Rowley of Plainfield were guests on Wednesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Adella Sproat.

Luncheon guests on Saturday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Elliott were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ryson of Park Forrest; Mrs. Nellie Hirschauer and Mrs. Laura Baker of Midlothian.

A discussion was held on dental health, the health activity for the year.

Linda Istel, hostess, served refreshments after the meeting. The next meeting will be held Feb. 15 at the home of June Swanberg.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Westcott and children have returned home from a three weeks vacation trip to California. They visited with his father, Arthur F. Westcott at Northridge, Calif., and visited Disneyland, San Francisco, and Hollywood, Calif.

The most glamorous delegate at the recent White House Conference on Aging was the former Gladys Smith (that's Mary Pickford).

There was an evening social held by the Frankfort Methodist Church on Saturday, Jan. 20 at a private lodge nearby. Mr. and Mrs. George Peterson of 9451 West Elm Avenue and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Karkos of 9449 West Hickory Street both from Arbury Hills attended for the evening of sledding, skating, ping pong and organized games.

The following day the sledding influence was still strong, and Mr. and Mrs. Peterson along with Len and Darlene Guntz and Tom Tanis tried their skills with sledding behind a moving car, up and down the streets of Arbury Hills. There was much fun and excitement for all, combined with more than a little bit of skill to prevent accidents.

The Summit Hill Parent Teacher Group will hold its February meeting on Thursday evening, Feb. 8 at 8 o'clock at the school. The fifth grade mothers will act as hostesses for the meeting, since the cancellation of the January meeting due to weather.

There will be a film presented that same evening by John Hayden on traffic safety. There will also be the usual trophy awarded to the room which had the greatest attendance of pupils for the previous month, and an award for greatest number of parents for the particular grade present for the meeting.

The Altar and Rosary Society of Saint Mary's in Mokena held a bake sale last Saturday. Those women in the parish with names beginning with the letter A to M did the baking for this bake sale. This included many of our Arbury Hills neighbors, and the goodies contributed were very much appreciated by both those running the sale and the people buying the goods.

JOIN THE ^{*}instant people CHAIN

Here's how you can join an Instant People chain and be able to retire early (we don't mean beddy-bye).

The next time you stub your toe while sleep walking, fall over a high chair which belongs to a baby in college, or scratch your fender squeezing into a stuffed garage, jot down the offending objects. Then call your Smiling Ad-Visor (who will listen like a head-shrinker)

Place ad, pay later:

This is where the chain reaction begins... Instant People will keep coming, cash in hand, eager to buy, as long as you have any idle valuables left to sell. The nice part of it is you'll have cash to pay your bills, money to put in the bank---you'll sleep soundly (and won't stub your toe.) There will be nothing to stumble over and you'll have room to restuff your garage and start all over again.

HEADS PROGRAM - Mrs. Florence Knize, center, is welcomed to her new post by Superintendent John L. Cutler, M.D., and Mrs. Bernice Regaldo, chief nurse. Mrs. Knize will head the nursing education program at Tinley Park State Hospital.

Appointed Department Head At Tinley Hospital

John L. Cutler, M.D., Superintendent of Tinley Park State Hospital, has announced the appointment of Mrs. Florence Knize, Mokena, as the new full-time head of the in-service education program. Her duties will include planning, directing and teaching classes for nursing department personnel.

Chief Nurse Mrs. Bernice Regaldo, 2724 Oxford Drive, Markham, has been heading the education program at the Hospital in addition to her duties as chief nurse. Mrs. Knize will be the first full time head of the program.

Mrs. Knize received her nursing degree and Bachelor of Science degree from Mercy School of Nursing of St. Xavier College of Chicago. She has done public health nursing and has taught in various schools of nursing in the Chicago area. Before coming to Tinley Park, Mrs. Knize was a clinical instructor at Silver Cross hospital in Joliet.

The philosophy behind the education program is summed up in this statement by the chief nurse: "In our continued striving for improved patient care it is necessary to have a constant day-to-day educational program which involves all levels of nursing personnel."

Tinley Park State Hospital has approximately 500 patients. More than one hundred nursing department employees are charged with their care in three shifts around the clock. Registered nurses, licensed practical nurses, and psychiatric aides are all involved in the education program. Clinical instructors and nursing supervisors further the education of nursing personnel on their wards in the actual work situation. Programs for special education are held periodically. Lectures, films, demonstrations, and reports from professional meetings keep personnel abreast of the latest developments in the fields of mental health and nursing. A consultant psychiatrist meets each week with members of the nursing department.

The new employee entering Tinley Park State hospital's service on the first level has the title of Psychiatric Aide I. The Aide I is involved in direct patient care under supervision. At Tinley Park patient care is in all cases under the direct supervision of a registered professional nurse, around the clock.

Aides must pass written civil service examinations, a physical, and a psychological examination. Class room work and clinical instructions are a part of his daily schedule. An Aide I receives 200 hours of instruction including basic nursing skills such as bed-making and feeding patients, plus classes on understanding human behavior, first aid, body structure and ethics. A study of psychiatric principles gives these new employees some understanding of the behavior of the patients with whom they work. For instance, a new aide will learn why an elderly person is often forgetful and what can and cannot be expected of this person. He will learn not to take it personally when a patient appears aggressive.

The start of the new year should also mean the start of a current record keeping system. The Illinois Farm Account book furnishes an inexpensive way to keep accurate farm records. Just a few minutes spent each week will give you a good set of farm records. Copies of the 1962 Illinois Farm Record book will be available in our office in a few days. For those of you who have already asked about them, our shipment was delayed. We are sorry, however we expect them any day.

Two important features of the Extension educational program are now behind us. I am referring to the vegetable schools and the dairy barn tours. The

To insure that these concepts will not remain merely ivory tower ideals but will be put into actual practice, the 122 hours of class-room teaching is supplemented with 78 hours of clinical work. The clinical work includes such items as caring for patients with various illnesses and making a bed ready for a patient coming back from the operating room.

In February, a group who have completed their courses and are working as Aides I will be selected to take the Aide II course. This includes studies in greater depth plus material on ward management and medical and surgical skills. An Aide II may work as a charge aide in charge of a routine ward or a ward worker on a hospital ward.

Extension Council and those of us on the Extension Staff were quite gratified with these meetings. How about you folks who attended? Several of you have already spoken to me with comments both good and bad. We welcome each. Our aim is to better serve farmers with specific problems in the areas of production and marketing. By the way, we still have a few copies of a mimeographed set of questions and answers about marketing orders and agreements. Copies of this publication are available free at my office while the supply lasts.

Congratulations to the Park Forest 4-H Council and its Junior Leadership committee, on a fine Junior Leader-Adult Leader Workshop. I believe everyone who attended the workshop came away with a better understanding of his or her responsibility in 4-H Club work. This even includes those of us who appeared on the program.

disturbed about current publicity concerning agriculture, and I don't blame them. Usually the headlines deal with the huge cost of storing surplus agricultural commodities or a huge check that went to some farmer for "not producing". Actually, these stories do not represent the total agricultural situation very accurately. Actually, the whole story of agriculture could be termed a "success story".

Have you ever given serious thought to the fact that today's food is the safest, most palatable, and the most abundant in the history of mankind? It's been a long time since I have seen a banner story praising the farmer and associated agricultural industries for achieving this remarkable feat.

The Public Relations Committee of our Extension Council in cooperation with the University of Illinois, has worked up a program of approximately 30 minutes in length which deals with the importance of agriculture in the economy of the United States. This is an illustrated presentation which will highlight on a part of the success story I just mentioned. This program can be scheduled in the near future and I believe would be suitable for programs at service clubs, women's clubs, and any other organization looking for a short but pertinent and timely program.

British Brides

The second meeting of the ents Association was held on Jan. 12 at the home of the Vice President, Mrs. Kenneth Apel, Hale Drive, Orland Park. There were 21 members and two visitors present.

There has been increasing interest in this unusual club that is open to all brides from the British Isles. Anyone qualified that is interested in joining can call Mrs. Apel at Fi-9-7958 or Mrs. B. McCarthy
Fu 5-0849.

One year after becoming a member of the T.B.P.A., a person is eligible for their charter plan on flights home via KLM Airlines.

The next meeting for the club is scheduled for Friday, Feb. 2 at 14347 S. Blaine, Pos-
sen. The treasurer, Mrs. Norah Ferraro resides there and has consented to have all the meetings in her spacious base-

Senator O'Neill Endorses Krusemark As Successor

Lottie Holman O'Neill, state senator from Downers Grove for the 41st senatorial district, has announced her support of Albert H. Krusemark in the Republican primary race for state senator in this district.
The 41st senatorial district is made up of Will and DuPage counties. Mrs. O'Neill is now finishing her third term in office, having been first elected to the senate in 1950. Previously she had served in the Illinois house of representatives since 1922 with the exception of one two-year term. During her public career in office she has been commended by industry, schools, agriculture and labor as having one of the soundest voting records in the State Legislature.

Mr. Krusemark has been practicing law in Joliet for the past 23 years and resides at Frankfort. He is 46 years old, married and has two children.

Mrs. O'Neill stated:
"Since I have announced my retirement as state senator I have received many requests from Republican committeemen and my many friends and followers as to my suggestion or recommendation concerning the candidates of the Republican party who have filed for this office. I have told all of my friends that I would not attempt to dictate who the successor shall be. I have waited until all candidates have filed and I have now carefully reviewed the record, experience and background of each candidate. I am most interested in seeing that my work and the fundamental policies and philosophy of the Republican party are carried forward. The Republican party needs sound and conservative leadership in the senate."

Kelsey Off To Mediterranean With The Navy

Richard C. Kelsey, seaman, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence C. Kelsey of 14671 West ave., Orland Park, Ill., is serving aboard the amphibious force flagship, USS Taconic, which departed Norfolk, Va., Jan. 15, for a five month cruise with the Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean.

The Norfolk-based ship will begin her overseas assignment by participating in a large Navy-Marine Corps amphibious exercise next month in the Western Mediterranean. Approximately 8,000 Navy and Marine Corps personnel are scheduled to participate in the February exercise.

"It is my belief that the candidacy of Albert H. Krusemark will best accomplish that purpose. I shall support him personally and I recommend that all Republican voters do the same. I do this on the basis of his loyalty to the Republican party during the past 13 years in which he has served as Republican committeeman and on the central committee, his loyalty to myself and to the depth of his legal, civic and business experience and his ability."

"He has actively and successfully practiced law at Joliet, for the past 23 years. During that time he has also served four years as assistant state's attorney of Will county. In 1955 he served as President of the Will County Bar Association and has served on various other county and state bar association committees during the past years. He is a member of the Illinois State Bar Association, American Bar Association and American Judicature Society.
He has served on the executive group of the County Republican Central committee for the past eight years as well as on numerous other G.O.P. committees."

"In school affairs he has served as president of his local

L W Taps Spartans For 3rd Conference Win

BY PAUL BROWN

The Lincoln-Way Knights won their third conference game Friday night by defeating the Spartans of Oak Lawn, 73-54.

The Knights jumped off to a 10-8 first quarter lead, and were never headed after that.
Lincoln-Way outscored the Spartans 25-14 in the second period for a 35-22 halftime margin.

The third stanza started out not different as the Knights again easily outscored the Spartans, this time 21-13. Oak Lawn finally outpointed the Knights in the fourth quarter, 19-17.

High scoring went to Tom
